

Gate Receipts Prove There Is Room For Three Leagues

Fans Show They Regard Federals as Major League Organization and Will Support Them; Organized Baseball Is Also Drawing Healthy Crowds; None Is Likely to Make Money This Year.

By FRANK G. MENKE.

NEW YORK, April 22.—There is room for a third big league, the Federal league will be a success, and all three leagues will have up bumper attendance records for 1914, according to the statistics available here.

The wonderful outpouring of fans at the opening games in all three of the big leagues, has shown that there are enough fans in this land to comfortably support three major league organizations.

The welcome as far extended to the new Federal league has exceeded even the most optimistic hopes of the promoters of the organization. They had figured that the fans, being a good deal richer than those of the other leagues, would give them a good attendance at the opening games, but the fact that the Federal league will have a good attendance at the opening games, and that the other leagues will also have a good attendance, shows that the fans are not only willing to support three major leagues, but that they are also willing to support three major leagues.

Fans Support Federals.

Of course, each organization for the Federal league will not be shown every day, but in most of the cities where the Federal league will play, the fans are showing a good attendance at the opening games, and that the other leagues will also have a good attendance, shows that the fans are not only willing to support three major leagues, but that they are also willing to support three major leagues.

However, despite the fact that this promise to be a year when the attendance figures for the American and National leagues will be broken, and when the new league will hang up a fairly good record, it is not a year when the fans will be so much interested in the Federal league as they were in the other two.

The Federal league will not be shown every day, but in most of the cities where the Federal league will play, the fans are showing a good attendance at the opening games, and that the other leagues will also have a good attendance, shows that the fans are not only willing to support three major leagues, but that they are also willing to support three major leagues.

Carpentier Accepts $50,000 Offer Fights Three Bouts In Antipodes

GEORGE CARPENTIER, the French heavyweight champion, has accepted an offer from "Boss" Tucker, the Australian promoter, of $50,000 for a trip to Australia. Although nothing has been definitely settled, it is considered certain that Carpentier will fight three bouts under the terms of the contract.

After meeting McGovern, Carpentier will participate in two more bouts, and then return to France, where he will fight a temporary farewell to the boxing game through his agent, who is currently in the city.

Charles Weigand, president of the Chicago Federal league club, has definitely announced that Larry Chase, star pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, has been traded to the Federal league. Weigand stated that the Cubs had offered him $100,000 for Chase, but that the Federal league had offered him $150,000, and that he had accepted the latter offer.

Bob Fitzsimmons, now on a vaudeville circuit, cannot resist himself to the fact that he is through as a fighter. Fitz stated that he had no more to make, and that he was an old man, and that he was through as a fighter.

Earl Hamilton, the shooting artist of the St. Louis Browns, celebrated his return to the city by taking a game from the Detroit Tigers, 3 to 1.

WHO IS HE?

THE is a young man who never had any real job and never had any distinct idea of getting one until he received a letter from his father, who told him that he could run 100 yards faster than any athlete in his school, and could hit a baseball on the nose with more accuracy. He was not a poor boy, and really did not have any worry about the job that was waiting for him at the end of the school. His father was fitting him for a professional career.

The call of the ball and bat got him, however, and despite the protests of the father, he traveled to the city of the most talked of baseball men in America. On one occasion his name was brought up during a discussion in the city.

As in the case of yesterday's hero, this young man was not a professional player, but a professional player. He was not a professional player, but a professional player. He was not a professional player, but a professional player.

"STORIES ABOUT STARS"

Humorous and Serious Tales of the Ball Field

By BILLY EVANS.

A MAJORITY of baseball managers either believe all close decisions are given against them, or else create such an impression on us to have an ally when they are in a tight spot. Some managers are always pitching, and some are always catching, and some are always playing. They are all in the same boat, and they are all in the same boat.

The catcher, it appeared, had called the boy a name which in his section of country, was fighting word, and never used as a joke. That day the boy got the best of it, because he landed the first blow, a week later they got together again, and the catcher, so the players say, won. During the season that followed, the catcher did not attract an unusual amount of attention.

In the late fall our hero went home, and his father was amazed and surprised to see him sitting around and tearing up the end on the lawn. Pressed for an explanation, the boy said that he was perfecting the hook slide.

"And," he added, between puffs, "I'll be the best one in the world next season." And he made good.

Today our hero is a wealthy person, having made more money than his father, and his father, who objected to his being a professional player, is now a professional player.

To be a little more explicit, this young man, while admitted for his marvelous ability, is generally accused of being "well-headed."

"You know," he said one day, "the hardest job I have in the big league is trying to make people understand that I am not a professional player. I don't think I will ever succeed. And, believe me, I have to have the fans think that."

The hero of this biography has had a crack at it, and will not admit that he has made a mistake. He has never lost a game, and he has never lost a game.

The baseball player who was the hero of yesterday's story is "Eddie" Collins.

FANS MEET TONIGHT TO PLAN EXCURSION

Will Discuss Trip to Silver City, N. M., to See Copper League Team Clash.

Formal announcement that an excursion of El Paso baseball fans to Silver City, N. M., for the purpose of seeing the Copper league club in action, will be run in the near future, was made by a number of prominent local citizens. The excursion is being organized by the Copper league club, and the fans are expected to be in the city by the end of the month.

Definite action will be taken at a meeting to be held at the Casino club Thursday evening at which every fan interested in this trip is expected to be present. Among those who will attend are: Dr. J. McCann, Harry Wells, J. Anderson, Charles Kline, and a committee to arrange the details of the excursion. The plan of the excursion is to go to Silver City, N. M., where the Copper league club will be in action, and to see the game.

Some samples of the excitement that the fans are showing at the prospect of the excursion, is shown by the fact that the fans are expected to be in the city by the end of the month.

However, the fact that many of the fans have given their patronage to the Federal league, does not mean that the fans are not interested in the Copper league. The fans are expected to be in the city by the end of the month.
